Federalism.

[The N. York Courier of the 5th instant, has the following remarks on the Address of Henry Lee jr. published in the American D. Advertiser of Monday last.]

If the preceding address had appeared in England, during the present distresses there; or if it had appeared in this country, during the wicked administration of John Adams; that administration which made a loan of four millions of dollars, and embodied twelve regiments, during and only during our hostilities with the French Republic, it would have been called republicanism of the first brilliancy. But in the present age of enormous loans, oppressive taxes, large and permanent standing armies, and unconstitutional caucuses, it must be considered downright toryism.

Fie, fie, Mr, Lee! how dare you, federalist, as you are, think the national debt too large, the taxes too heavy, and corruption too extensive? Accusations of this sort ought only to be made against the tory administration, and the British ministry. But against the Republican cabinet at Washington—it is really too impudent. You should reflect, sir, that the saints cannot err; and that democracy, "can do no wrong;" that one man may steal a horse, while another is hung for looking over a fence. "Principles, not men," is the Democratic motto—aye sir, principles—principles—the democrats never abandon principles for men! all which is proved fairly and clearly by their attachment to the principal and interest of the national debt. And this, sir, though a miserable pun, is a very serious and alarming fact.

No—Mr. Lee the funeral has gone by. You will not gain your election, be your concern for your country ever so great.

The success of the republican party, is a matter of vastly more importance than the prosperity of the country. But if you could condecend to deal in some rigmarole rhodamontade about republicanism and the republican party, and being an American rely upon it, your fellow citizens would lay quietly down and let you make loans, lay taxes and double salary, without questioning you at all. Because sir, being a good republican and sound American, you could not mean any harm by such proceeding. Formerly the tree was known by its fruit; now, the fruit is known by the tree. Do you see those little, hard, worm stung apples, taste them, I beseech you. Ah how sour! you say—curse the crabs, how sour! So you say, but sir, there has been a caucus of men, who sell fruit in the market, and they have declared, by a majority of eleven, that that tree, which bears those ugly little crab apples, as you are graceless enough to consider them, is a real bona fide Spitzenbergher: and that fact being thus established, it follows that the fruit you have just cursed so cordially, are as fine large and red Spitzenberghers, as ever turned their rosy cheeks to the Sun.

Ah Sir! you do not attend sufficiently to principles!

The same fruit which was ugly crabed and sour in John Adam's orchard, becomes fine and exquisite in that of James Madison. But you do not see the difference. Ah sir, the reason is very plain. You have not attended sufficiently to principles.

But the crabs are not merely as sour, but ten times more so, in Madison's than in Adam's orchard: and every tree is full of them—nothing but crabs, crabs, from one end to the other. Adams to be sure had a few for sweet meats but here there is nothing but crabs, as thick as blackberries. So you say.

Now Mr. Lee how idly you talk. How'l beseech you, can a Spitzenberger, a right real Spitzenbergher bear crabs?

But taste them sir—taste them—and you will be convinced.

I taste; what for? what need of tasting.—Has it not been decided that the trees are all Spitzenbergers? How then is it possible that they should bear crabs!

As sir! you do not attend sufficiently to principles, and therefore your election's "assurance is but small."

From the Western Monitor.

Our relations with Spain appear to constitute at present the most interesting topic of political discussions. Some conspicuous politicians among ourselves have long been anxious to blow up a war. Having terminated our late contest with England so gloriously and so successfully, they are exceedingly zealous for a speedy return of the splendours and blessings and fat offices of war. Some even argue abstractly against the continuance of Peace. A prominent member, for example of the United States' Senate thus expressed himself during the last session: "The United States could not expect to remain always at peace. Perhaps they ought not to desire it, for long continued peace enervates, corrupts and debases a nation and prepares it for subjugation, by rendering it too timid, too effeminate to defend itself." Again, speaking of war he says: "Perhaps we ought not to wish to avoid it; for peace is not always the best thing for a nation." Others, not quite so bold, address themselves to the most honourable prejudices and most enthusiastic feelings of the human heart. They urge that we are in duty bound to sacrifice our own national peace and prosperity, in order to deliver our neighbours from grievous oppression. They paint in glowing colours the sufferings of patriots struggling for independence and conjure the citizens of these United States, by their love of liberty and the gratitude they feel for their own deliverance, magnanimously to join in behalf of the oppressed, against their inhuman and unprincipled tyrants. In this state of things, we hear of an aggression upon our national flag by officers of the Government thus stigmatised for its oppression. We are told that a Spanish naval commander, wantonly and without provocation, fired on one of our national ships insulted our officers, killed our seamen, and set up pretensions, unwarrantable and ridiculous. All this is calculated to increase the war mania, and indeed if the accounts first given us are correct, and conduct so unjustifiable is sanctioned by the Spanish government, indignation on our part is at once a natural and an honorable emotion. But on occasions like this, we are generally to apt to conduct with precipitation. Without stopping to reflect, that something may perhaps be wrong on our own side, or that the outrage, however enormous, may be instantly disavowed and promptly punished, we burst forth with exclamations of the most intemperate violence, and unfit our minds for a dispassionate investigation and impartial judgment, even at a subsequent period. From the accounts received in the present instance, our own impression is, that there has probably been something to blame on both sides, and that every sincere lover of peace ought to hope, what he believe will prove the fact, that the outrage will afford no substantial ground for hostilities between the two countries. Already are we informed that "our public vessels have for some time past been actively employed in keeping up an intercourse with the insurgents of Mexico," and violating the "municipal laws of Spain," which "have always excluded foreign vessels from trading to particular ports within the Gulph of Mexico:" and that the Firebrand (the vessel thus violently assailed) was engaged in carrying on this illicit trade. If this be true, the attack was neither unprovoked nor inexcusable: and at all events, it is incumbent on us calmly to wait for the developement of facts. As to war on our part for the benefit of the South American Patriots, we have already expressed our sentiments. We have too little evidence of their capacity for freedom, to warrant us in hazarding our own prosperity, for the uncertain prospect of gaining them a boon, which after all may prove to them of such doubtful value.—Let us not be irritable or precipitate: let us sincerely endeavor to preserve peace: but to every real outrage on our rights, let us display a manly and dignified resentment.

From the Boston Palladium of November 8.

Captain Upton, who arrived here this morning, in 20 days from Laguira, informs, that he was detained 15 days by an embargo laid at that place, in consequence, as was generally supposed, of a defeat of the royal troops in the vicinity of Barcelona, from the insurgents, who had appeared in that neighborhood in great force, say from 1500 to 2000, with a considerable number of cavalry. The royal troops amounted to from 1200 to 1500, under Lopez, and were defeated with the loss of 8 or 900 men killed and taken prisoners. This engagement took place about the 10th of Sept. In consequence of this, all the inhabitants of Barcelona, (those excepted who were in favor of the patriot cause) left this place, and arrived at Laguira in a most wretched condition, destitute of almost every thing, and having suffered from want of provisions on the passage.

A few days previous to capt. U's sailing, one or two vessels had arrived from Cumana, with women and children, and left that place for the same reason as those from Barcelona. The captain of one of the vessels informed, that the greatest consternation and alarm prevailed there on account of the insurgents, who had possession of all the coast to windward, and were in every direction round the city, so that none of the inhabitants could attempt to get in the country without falling into their hands. Skirmishes took place daily. Immediately after this information was received by the captain general of the Caraccas, all the troops that could be spared from the defence of Laguira (about 1500) were sent against the insurgents; and when Capt. U. sailed, information was hourly expected of an engagement which would decide the fate of the province. Business was completely at a stand at Laguira. Two or three vessels were lying in the harbor with their cargoes on board, who would not discharge, and one had actually returned to St. Thomas, with her cargo of dry goods.

UNDERWRITERS' ROOMS.

Liverpool 5th Sept. 1816.

At a special general meeting of the association of underwriters, held this day for the purpose of taking into consideration the propriety of revising the present mode of adjusting partial losses on goods landed in America,

John Livingston, Esq. in the chair.

It was resolved unanimously.

That in future average losses on goods shall not be settled on the principle of abandonment, and that the following documents be required from the assured for the purpose of making up the statements.

1—Protest.

2—Survey of stowage on board.

3—Survey on shore, within ten days from the landing, affidavit of what such goods should sell for, in cash, at the time, if not damaged. Such survey and appraisement to be made by two competent persons, unconnected with the surveyors for reduction of duty, and assisted by the agent for this association, and to give the actual selling price, in cash, without reference to the invoice or any other document.

4—Custom house certificate of return duties.

5—Account of sales certified.

That this resolution be signed by the chairman, on behalf of the meeting, and that copies be printed and distributed among the merchants, for their information.

(Signed)
JOHN LIVINGSTON, Chairman.

INFAMOUS.

We, the undesigned, commercial brokers of the Exchange in Bordeax, appointed by the president of the tribunal of commerce of the said city of Bordeaux, to examine and estimate the damage on goods saved from the ship Armand, of New-York, Brevoort, master, stranded at the entrance of the river, declare, that in the course of this operation we have found three bales of cotton, (Sea Island,) marked 3, which were filled with from one half to three quarters of their weight with cotton seed: that this fraud appears to have been committed designedly, and with a view to deceive the purchaser, as this seed was completely covered on every side by the layers of cotton of a fine quality, previous to its being damaged; therefore whoever might have bought these bales, without examining them in the centre, would have been deceived as the seed is of no value here.

We add that frequent complaints are made of similar frauds being practised from the United States, in consequence of which heavy reductions are often made on this quality of cotton.

We have also found one bale of cotton, short staple, marked L, containing in the centre 27 half kilgrams of 27 pounds of old iron.

In faith of which, we have delivered to Mr. Jonathan Jones, by his request, the present declaration, to serve whom it may concern.

The Kentucky Palladium states that Charles S. RISING OF THE JEWS.

The information which we this day give from Cairo, of the rising of the Jews, at first, excites but little sensation; but on reflection, it seems entitled to a little attention. The readers of the Gazette will no doubt recollect, that some years since, we published a very remarkable prophecy from a London paper, and thus far the prophecy has been fulfilled—and who knows, except God himself, but the Jew leader who is spoken of in our article from Cairo, may be the great general, who, according to the prophecy, which we copy below, is gathering the Israelites together, and leading them to their own country, to lay the foundation of their future greatness.

We could here indulge in a variety of thoughts on this interesting subject, which our readers can draw their own conclusions, after perusing the prophecy and the news from Cairo which follows.

PROPHECY.

The following is a curious extract from the Gentleman's Magazine for July 1807, page 616:

"There is now living at Gillingham in Kent, a most excentric old gentleman, who assumes to himself the faculty of second sight, and has, for several years, predicted the fate of Empires, and the fall of Bonaparte. At the time of his declaration, there was a general expectation of peace, which was really ratified—but the old gentleman stood firm in his opinion he delivered, & speaks with exultation of some recent events which have confirmed them. The period when these great events will take place, will be when three years & a half are passed after the time of the highest exaltation, and the last honors attained by Bonaparte!!!"

A writer in Poulson's paper urges the propriety of a national Bankrupt law; and requests printers in commercial towns to suggest the utility of presenting memorials to congress on the subject.

The power of passing bankrupt laws was expressly granted to congress by the constitution "to establish a uniform system of Bankruptcy." At the time of the adoption of the constitution, as now, the different states had very different laws on this subject. The granting of the power, and especially the insertion of uniform, seem to render it an imperative duty in congress to establish a uniform system: and also appears to be a relinquishment, on the part of the individual states, of the right of passing any laws on the subject. The right, it is urged, cannot be granted and at the same time be retained: and, if we mistake not, some court, in one of the states, has decided a state insolvent law to be unconstitutional.

It was said, while the United States' bankrupt law was in existence, that many frauds took place under its operation, that many were seen riding in their carriages and apparently in wealth, immediately after receiving the benefit of the law. Whether, if there were such instances, they occurred in consequence of a defect in the law, or of undetected perjury in the debtor, we know not. But surely there are, or ought to be, men enough in congress of sufficient talents to frame an act with such provisions as that they cannot be evaded. We have heard it said that this was impossible. The same impossibility would apply to the law against counterfeiting, or any other laws. It is not to be expected that a law will never be violated. Were it so, were all men thus moral, there would be no necessity for laws of any kind. Such an argument is therefore altogether invalid.

The only question is whether or not such a law would be more advantageous to the public in general than to continue with insolvent laws so different in the different states, and in some states with none. At least this will be the principal object of inquiry in congress; tho not less ought to be considered the immorality, the injustice, the cruelty, of giving a disappointed, malicious or revengeful man, the power of imprisoning during his pleasure, or for one moment, an honest man.

In some of the states there are no insolvent laws: and at this moment there are thousands of families in a most unfortunate and remediless condition from the want of such. Of those, who during the war, with an expectation of realizing much profit, an expectation that to them appeared to be well founded, vested their whole property in manufacturing establishments, there are vast many who are entirely ruined as to property. Some of their creditors have received the full amount of their claims; others, from the want of bankrupt law, have received nothing: while the unfortunate debtors are perhaps in gaol, or at least every day liable to imprisonment, and left without a motive for further exertion, because, starting de novo all their gains are liable to be taken to satisfy old debts, the whole of which the debtor may never have a prospect of paying.

A bankrupt act is not less beneficial to the creditor than the debtor. With it the creditor is certain of receiving his share of the debtor's effects.

At the time of the repeal of the bankrupt law, as at the time of its being enacted, congress were greatly divided in their sentiments, but many voted against it because they considered it a federal measure, one of John Adams's modes of extending executive influence. True, there were some, such as Gen. Smith, of Balt. and others, of the democrats, who were decidedly in favour of it, but many, we are convinced, opposed it principally on political grounds.

It was expected that the subject would be discussed in congress last winter, but the members received no more pay for continuing the session, like many other important considerations it was postponed. Probably it will be brought on the tapis the ensuing session, the defects of the former law investigated, and a new one more perfect result from the investigation. Vir. Pat.

Extract of a circular letter from Amsterdam, received by a commercial house in New York dated Sept. 5th.

"Tobacco has been and still seems to be an article of great speculation in the United States, and we aporehend some severe losses will result: the European markets continue to disappoint those very sanguine expectations that are formed on the other side of the water, as those high prices cannot be obtained here, which we learn are still giving in America; our stock, it is true, is not very large, but the vast depopulation occasioned by the late sanguinary wars and the great check given to general luxury, has contributed to decrease the consumption considerably, recourse too was had to a substitute for American Tobacco, and the growth of the article has been greatly propagated in Europe, which has also some influence. The chief holders here seem now more inclined to realize than to keep for uncertain better prices. There are several parcels now in the market for sale, the better sorts of Maryland Tobacco have somewhat improved lately both in price and in demand about 1000 hhds. have been lately sold at from 87-8 to 11 1-4 st. and some middling Carolina at 10 1-2 st. We learn that 2000 hhds. Tobacco are now under way and that a quantity of about 4700 hhds. is still remaining with you, we also may expect supplies from Virginia, Carolina and Kentucky, all which is still on hands, though not of much consideration in briskness, is however more than sufficient to answer the present demand: it is not improbable that it may take a favorable turn towards the fall, as the dealers will then begin to lay in their winter stocks, but we persist in the opinion, that although good old tobacco may not go lower yet the article at large will not advance to a proportion adequate to the high rates paying and the great expectations entertained on your side; the average value of American tobacco is still too high for general consumption, and untill it declines to the usual rates in times of peace, no regular great demand can be expected the impoverished state of Europe prevents the use of it at these high prices, and is a principal cause of encouraging the growth in Europe, which will continue to be used as a substitute as long as American Tobacco remains so dear, to the prejudice of the sales of the latter sorts."

Singular Occurrence.

A celebrated fox-hound the property of R. Cowen, huntsman to the Carlisle harriers, has reared three cub foxes, taken when three days old. They were brought up in the kennel of Henry Oliphant, Esq. of Broadfield house: and surprising to relate, accompany the hounds in the chase, and are as fierce against their own species as their most canine associates.

METHOD of preserving BEEF.

Sort your beef, let it be cold, but no frozen. To 200 wt. use half a bushel of salt, half a pound of salt petre, and two quarts of molasses. Dissolve your salt petre in water, and add the molasses, then pack down your beef tight, put salt in your barrel, and between each layer and let a suitable proportion of salt-petre and molasses be put on each layer, till all is put together, reserving four or five quarts of salt to make a brine, sufficient to cover the beef, which must be added in four or five days, and your beef will be good through the year. When you salt beef again use the same process—10, 11, or 12 quarts of salt will be enough: but keep your old brine, and in 4 or 5 days add it without boiling, as that will injure it very much. I have tried this method three years, and the beef has been sweet and good.

Agricultural.

Mr. Richard Peters has communicated to the Philadelphia Agricultural Society, a method of destroying corn grubs, or cut worms. The preventive is fall ploughing; which exposes the progensy of the Grub to destruction by frosts and other inclemencies of the winter—During a period of more than fifty years, (says he) I have been personally engaged or constantly interested in practical farming: I can truly say, that I never suffered any material injury from Grubs when I turned up my fields intended for corn, in the fall of the year. I always harrowed the fallow, and previously thereto, often rolled down the sod. When I could procure lime at that season, or early in the spring, I was, and still am in the habit of spreading it on the corn fallow—and, although this is a sure destroyer of the progency of the beetle, yet the effect was manifest without the application of lime. If fall ploughing yielded no other benefits, (and numerous are its advantages) one would imagine that this would be sufficient to recommend it to general adoption. Yet although the practice has been of late years more commendably attended to than formerly, it is really deplorable that it is not universally followed.—Merely ploughing is salutary; but the harrowing and thereby completely seperating the clods, and breaking up the depositories of vermin, is equally essential. Besides the sod being thus decomposed, and the access of air prevented by harrowing, (and if previously rolled, the more so,) the weeds and grass do not vegetate in the spring. If undisturbed, and they may so remain if the seed be shallow planted, those pests become rotted; and assist, instead of impeding the growth of the crop.

Royal Divorce.

The reported intention to dissolve by due legal forms certain matrimonial ties which have long been deemed burdensome, has for some time been occupying much of the public attention: and a pamplet has just appeared upon the subject, entitled, 'The attempt to Divorce the Princess of Wales, impartially considered.' The author thus commences his work; 'There is now no manner of doubt, that an attempt will be made next session of parliament to dissolve the marriage between the Prince Regent and the princess, in order to enable his royal highness to marry again, and to afford him the chance of having a male heir to the crown.'

The above bulletin our readers will perceive is much in the same form as usual. Upon so delicate and distressing a subject, it would be highly indecorous to repeat the numerous reports which must reach every journalist, but we cannot in a faithful discharge of our duty, omit to notice the very peculiar circumstance—that his Majesty has not left his apartments to take the benefit of the air and exercise for upwards of four years!—We are totally at a loss to reconcile this mode of treatment with the Bulletins, which all assure us that "His Majesty has enjoyed good bodily health," as it is well known that the King, under more happy circumstances, was accustomed to very hard exercise in the open air, from which no weather could deter him. We must therefore take the liberty of saying, that more explanation is due from the Physicians to a loyal people, who contribute 255,000l per annum as a separate charge for the Household attendance on their afflicted Sovereign. We trust this subject will attract the attention of Parliament on its next assembling.

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

BOOKSELLERS, KING STREET,

Have just received from LEE'S PATENT MEDICINE Store, No. 46 Maiden Lane, N. York,

A FRESH SUPPLY

Of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to cary off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which is so often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tænia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number, when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout asthmatic gout, palsy, lumbagoo, numbness, whitswellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellant minerals, (the basis of other lotions) and of unparralled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c. The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural, insensible perspiration, which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth and improving the complexion.

The Restorative Powder for the teeth and Gums.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and foulness, which suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of the various complaints resulting from dissipated pleasures, juvenile indiscretions, residence in climates unfavourable to the constitution, the immoderate use of tea, frequent inoxication or any other destructive intemperance the unskilful or excessive use of mercury, the diseases peculiar to females at a certain period of life, bad lyings in, &c.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR.

Sovereign remedy for Colds, obstinate Coughs, Asthmas, sore throats, and approaching Consumptions, and most disorders of the breast and lungs.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water.

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Toothe Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one applicaiton, may be used with perfect safety on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Lee's Infallibe Ague and Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent, and intermittent fevers.

Han's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
